Lam Research Corporation Announces Roger Emerick's Retirement As Chairman; Jim Bagley, Currently Ceo, Elected Chairman
FREMONT, Calif., August 25, 1998 - Lam Research Corporation (Nasdaq: LRCX), a leading supplier of wafer fabrication equipment to the worldwide semiconductor industry, today announced that Roger Emerick, a 30-year veteran of the semiconductor industry, is retiring from the position of chairman of the Board of Directors, effective September 1, 1998. Mr. Emerick will continue to serve as a director of the Company. As of that date, James W. Bagley, Lam's chief executive officer, will assume the role of chairman in addition to his responsibilities as CEO.

During Mr. Emerick's 16-year tenure as CEO and chairman, Lam's revenues exceeded billion making Lam the fourth largest semiconductor equipment supplier in the world. Lam also became a technology leader by providing enabling technologies in plasma etching equipment and processes.

According to Jim Bagley, "Since 1982, Roger has guided the Company through technology transitions and the cycles of this industry while directing the building of a major company."

Bagley, a 32-year veteran of the semiconductor industry, held executive positions at Texas Instruments, Applied Materials, Inc., and OnTrak Systems, Inc., and currently serves on the Boards of Directors for KLA-Tencor, Kulicke & Soffa Industries, Micron Technology, Inc., Teradyne, and SEMI/SEMATECH. "After working the past year with Jim and Lam's new management team, I am comfortable that I can step down as chairman with full confidence in Lam's future," stated Emerick. "The management team has the talent and experience to lead the Company through the current downturn so that Lam will emerge prepared for the opportunities ahead."

Lam Research Corporation is a leading supplier of wafer fabrication equipment and services to the world's semiconductor industry. Lam's headquarters are located in Fremont, California.
