

Lam Research Corporation Announces Option Purchase Program

Lam Research Corporation Announces Option Purchase Program FREMONT, Calif., June 21, 1999 - Lam Research Corporation (Nasdaq: LRCX), a leading supplier of wafer fabrication equipment to the worldwide semiconductor industry, today announced a program authorized by the company's Board of Directors to acquire from independent third parties options to purchase up to 3.5 million shares of the company's common stock. These call options are to be acquired to offset the anticipated dilutive effect of a potential conversion into common stock of subordinated debt previously issued by the company. As part of the program, the Board also authorized the company to enter into put options with the same third parties covering up to 5.25 million shares of the company's common stock. The premiums the company will receive over the course of the program from the sale of the put options to the third parties is intended to offset in full the premium cost to the company of its purchases of call options from those same parties. This option purchase program is separate from share repurchase programs previously announced by the company.

For further details concerning this program please see the company's filing relating to this disclosure on Form 8-K, which is being filed in conjunction with this release.
