The benefits of investments made in prior downturns are reflected in our financial results and our ability to gain market share in key areas."

Hill continued, "This quarter we shipped our 100th SABRE[®] system, which underscores Novellus' dominant share of the copper deposition market and leading competitive position. Additionally, we expanded our engineering and manufacturing infrastructure with the opening of a new facility in Oregon. This facility is designed to produce our copper metallization and damascene dielectric deposition tools, which is timely given the semiconductor industry's mainstream transition to the use of copper in the ICs that power today's sophisticated consumer electronic devices."
