

Novellus Signs Non-Exclusive Licensing Agreement With Surplus Process Equipment Corporation

SAN JOSE, Calif., Oct. 19, 2006 - Novellus Systems, Inc. (Nasdaq: NVLS) today announced it has entered into a non-exclusive licensing agreement with Surplus Process Equipment Corporation ("SPEC"), wherein SPEC will refurbish certain used Novellus systems and build new systems to current Novellus specifications. Terms of the agreement were not disclosed.

Recognizing the need for legacy product support in its installed base, and wanting to provide an avenue for customers to acquire additional systems and capacity for previously discontinued products, Novellus licensed to SPEC the following products:

- Aura 1000 photoresist stripper systems
- AE 2001 etcher systems
- Aura 2000LL photoresist stripper systems
- Aura AE2000LL etcher systems
- L3510 photoresist stripper systems
- GaSonics VHP high-pressure oxidation system.

All other 200 mm and 300 mm Surface Integrity Group (SIG) products related to the Novellus acquisition of GaSonics International Corp. in 2001, including the Novellus GAMMA product line and PEP IRIDIA® product, will continue to be manufactured, sold and supported directly through Novellus.
