

Novellus Systems Updates Second Quarter Guidance

SAN JOSE, Calif., June 28, 2007 Novellus Systems, Inc. (NASDAQ: NVLS), today announced it expects second quarter bookings, shipments, revenues and earnings per share to come in at the low end of the guidance ranges provided during the mid-quarter update conference call on May 31st 2007. In addition, the company anticipates weakening semiconductor equipment industry demand and as a result is taking preemptive actions, which will reduce expenses in the second half of 2007. These expense control initiatives include a reduction of executive salaries for the remainder of 2007 and company shutdowns in both the third and fourth quarters.

The company will report second quarter results and provide guidance on third quarter forecasted results on July 16th.
