Lam Research Corporation Updates 2008 December Quarter Outlook

FREMONT, Calif., Dec 19, 2008 (BUSINESS WIRE) --

Lam Research Corporation (NASDAQ:LRCX) today announced that it has revised its previously issued financial outlook for the quarter ending December 28, 2008 to reflect continued deterioration in semiconductor equipment market conditions.

Lam Research now expects that its performance for the December 2008 quarter will be as follows:

(in thousands, except per share data and percentages)
-- Shipments:	$212,000 to $225,000
-- Revenue:	$270,000 to $285,000
-- Operating Margin	-10% to -12%
-- Ongoing EPS	-$0.04 to -$0.05

On November 20, 2008 Lam Research announced restructuring activities and other cost reduction actions targeted to reduce expenses by $15 million to $20 million per quarter. As detailed in the Company's amended 8-K filing on December 19, 2008 the charges associated with the restructuring activity are expected to be approximately $20 million to $26 million. These charges consist of approximately $15 million to $20 million of cash charges related to one-time termination benefits associated with the Company's reduction in force as well as non-cash charges for asset impairments of approximately $5 million to $6 million. The Company expects to complete the restructuring plan during the first calendar quarter of 2009.

"Business conditions in the semiconductor equipment sector have deteriorated further in recent weeks. The weakness in memory pricing, the softening end-user demand environment, and restrictions in the capital markets have caused our customers to dramatically reduce their equipment purchases," said Steve Newberry, president and chief executive officer of Lam Research. "As a result of these conditions we are adjusting our December quarter outlook and we expect this challenging environment will persist going into 2009. Throughout this economic cycle we are maintaining focused expense discipline to preserve a strong balance sheet with healthy cash balances," Newberry concluded.
